CRITERION I – CURRICULAR ASPECTS

1.1 – Curriculum Planning and Implementation

1.1.1 – Institution has the mechanism for well planned curriculum delivery and documentation. Explain in 500 words

Gauhati Commerce College adopts a holistic approach for the effective delivery of the curriculum using a well-planned, transparent and documented process for the same. Being affiliated to Gauhati University, all the departments follow the curriculum strictly as prescribed by the University. All the courses are offered in semester mode. From this session, CBCS system (Honours) has been introduced by Gauhati University and the college too has geared up for the changed pattern of syllabus. Effective curriculum delivery is ensured and documented through a well-planned time table, academic calendar, workload distribution and systematic evaluation. On the basis of a well-planned master time-table, departmental time-tables are prepared. Students' participation is always encouraged by engaging them in the class, guiding them in preparing projects and through assignments. Classroom teaching is done using traditional as well as technology-based methods (especially during discontinuation of offline classes during Covid period) for effective curriculum delivery. Records of assignments and classes are maintained by the concerned departments. Students' progress is gauged by the departments concerned on the basis of class-tests, assignments and sessional examinations. The Department of Accountancy of B.Com organises practical computer-based 'Tally' training for the first time under CBCS curriculum, to all the students of B.Com. 1st Semester in November, 2019. Due to the outbreak of the COVID pandemic and ensuing lockdown, the entire academic functioning came to a halt from the last week of March 2020 till May 2020. From the month of May 2020 provision of online classes began whereby teachers have resorted to various means of online teaching like conducting live classes on Google Meet, Zoom platform or sharing the links of their educational audios and videos through Whatsapp or Telegram. To the extent possible, students were reached out online. Following the Covid guidelines and SOPs, relaxed provisions have been made for preparation and submission of project reports by students. Teachers have guided the students for projects through online mode during this period and viva-voce for the same was also conducted using Zoom or Google Meet platform. All possible attempts were taken to educate the students properly even during the pandemic.

2.3.2 – Students mentoring system available in the institution? Give details. (maximum 500 words)

Mentorship has taken totally a radical turn as Covid 19 pandemic has taken its toll affecting both academic and non-academic concerns. As we are aware, the lockdown period has turned out to be a major stumbling block on the path of academic progress and the institution had no other alternative but to rely solely upon the online mode for a couple of months. Fortunately enough, the attitude of transforming the stumbling blocks into opportunities, by not breaking down, rather by breaking away with all situational restrictions was already there the arrangements of mentor-mentee had already been made. What was left was to assign Project Work of such nature which can be accomplished by the mentees without coming into physical contact with too huge a number of people. The way the mentors took much pain while rendering guidance to the mentees, the mentees too showed keen interest in learning through experimentation. First, over the platform of Google Meet or Zoom they came to terms with each other, gradually shaping and sharpening their ideas to form a topic suitable to both the parties. The idea of developing questionnaire via Google Form which was shared online opened up newer avenues of receiving of replies online, analysis of the received replies through Excel Sheet, offering the deduced suggestions in the Report and then submitting the same to the concerned mentor for verification and modification were the steps that followed almost spontaneously. Later the students were prepared for a Viva-Voce, of course to be functional online, and accordingly they were awarded marks for their Project Work. The students were rendered adequate support and guidance in completing their syllabi including class assignments, PDF notes, solving sample or model question papers etc., mostly online and later offline and then the combination of the two. Though it was quite challenging on the part of the mentors to carry out teaching via both online and offline mode, they took no step backward from rendering the lesson in the best possible manner. The mentees too took it seriously to upkeep their mental strength and to develop their cognitive fortitude amidst the pandemic situation. The mentees, on various occasions, sent their queries through class or section based whatsapp groups, some other time even at personal level, thereby maintaining their studies without compromising much of their academic interest, thanks to the long-inherited academic culture of mentorship clothed in the digitalised robe of novelty and nobility, innovation and aspiration. In the institution mentorship has proved itself productive in more than one way and there is no question of looking back in this regard. On the face of new academic scenario, say it for New Education Policy 2020 and for the ever-changing psychological ambience, due to the pandemic, mentorship must also flourish in the required direction about which the college is strong in its attitude and sanguine in its approach. Philosophy is too far from the world commerce, but in the absence of the philosophy of mentorship this world too cannot exist.
